JAPANESE WHOSE PATIENT DIED IS NABBED BY LAKE

pahu in the afternoon. After working carefully on the case to get at the facts he arrested Tomashiro this morning. He said that he had good evidence to sustain the charge.

Under Section 1023 of the Revised Laws illegal practitioners are guilty of misdemeanor and may be fined up to $250 upon conviction. If, however, it were established that the illegal practitioner contributed to the death of a patient the charge and penalty might be much more serious.

Referred to City Attorney.

Attorney General I. M. Stainback said today when asked concerning the Tomashiro case that he had had no information to the effect that anyone had died as the result of improper care by a physician.

He says that long lists of names of men who are reported to be practicing medicine without licenses are sent to him from time to time. Last fall Dr. Pratt, president of the board of health, sent him a list in which was the name of one Tomashiro, but no specific charge was made against Tomashiro and Stainback knew of no death by septic poisoning.

"Dr. Pratt told me in his letter," says Stainback, "that he had reported Tomashiro to the county attorney's office, and so when I wrote to the county attorney I did not include Tomashiro's name with the others."

"A few days ago I got another letter from Dr. Pratt giving a list of names with some charges. I sent the list to the county attorney's office and asked that they be investigated. There was, however, no intimation that any death had occurred in any of the cases. I wrote to Dr. Pratt explaining that this work rightly came under the city and county officers, and that he should take such matters up with them. There was one name of a man alleged to have been practicing on Hawaii. I advised Dr. Pratt to take up the case with the county attorney there."

Stainback explained that these investigations are often necessarily slow, and that the feature of some patient's having died as a result of treatment may have just been learned. He expressed the feeling that the city and county office is doing satisfactory work in handling cases.

CHARGES AGAINST AYLETT WILL BE PROBED MONDAY

Charges that R. W. Aylett, garbage inspector, "does not attend properly to the duties of his office," that "he is incompetent to handle" them and that he is using his place as head of the department to hand out sinecures to relatives, made in a petition filed with the board of supervisors two weeks ago will be investigated by the committee on health, composed of Supervisors Abia, Logan and Hatch at a meeting Monday night.

The petition was referred to the committee at the meeting at which it was filed for investigation, but no action has been taken on it as yet. Aylett declares that the 107 signatures on it were obtained by two men he discharged for failure to do their work. Members of the board appear to attach not much importance to the petition, which they think may be mainly a spite measure.

Extra guards have been stationed at the British consulate in New York, following an attempt made by supposed German agents to steal important papers.
